* Taking an optional internship will extend the duration of the program by a semester.

- Local Fee paying students include Vietnamese nationals and foreign nationals who hold a Vietnam work permit, category B visa, or residency permit; or foreign nationals who have a spouse or parent who holds a Vietnam work permit, category B visa or residency permit.
- RMIT Vietnam has three semesters per year for higher education programs and English courses have eight or nine intakes per year. Actual intakes are subject to demand.
- The Program fees are set in Vietnamese Dong (VND) and invoiced by semester.
- The stated fees are based on a typical selection of courses and actual fees may vary depending on the choice of elective courses. Fees for articulation courses and advanced entry programs may also vary depending on the number of exempted or additional courses necessary.
- In addition to the above fees, students may be required to pay the following Service Charges:

For ten week English course:

- > Medical Services Fee VND 290,000,
- > University Facilities Fee VND 470,000 (SGS) or VND 110,000 (Hanoi)

For higher education students:

- > Medical Services Fee VND 390,000 per semester
- > University Facilities Fee VND 620,000 (SGS) or VND 150,000 (Hanoi) per semester
- > Medical Insurance Fee VND 209,160 for one year of coverage.

- Fees are payable in Vietnamese Dong (VND), preferably by bank transfer (USD payments are only accepted for bank transfers from overseas accounts).
- For reasons of security and to minimise waiting time, students are encouraged to pay tuition fees by transferring them to RMIT Vietnam's ANZ bank account or by depositing them directly at an ANZ bank branch.
- A cash handling fee of VND 360,000 will be charged for all tuition fee payments made in cash to the Saigon South campus cashier. This fee applies to both English and academic program fees. The fee does not apply to the VND 10,000,000 deposit paid by students new to an academic program.
- RMIT Vietnam reserves the right to adjust the listed Vietnamese Dong (VND) fees to compensate for exchange rate movements.
- Fees are subject to change without notice.
