Service Charges

In addition to the program fees listed in the tables on the previous page, students may be required to pay the following Service Charges:

Medical Services Fee

Students attending courses delivered during the day will pay the University Medical Services Fee. The cost for English Program students is US$15 per 10 week course. The cost for diploma and degree students is US$20 per semester. The medical and health services provided include international standard emergency, first aid, and primary health care consultations with a qualified doctor, in addition to general health advice and education.

Enrolment Fee

The Enrolment Fee is a contribution towards the development and maintenance of open access sport and recreation facilities and activities. The Enrolment Fee for 2008 will be US$3.50 per 10 week course for English Program students and US$5 per semester for Higher Education students.

Printing Services

All newly enrolled Higher Education students in 2008 will be provided an initial 100 page printing allocation. Continuing students, and new students who have used up their initial free allocation, can purchase 150 page top-ups for 100,000 vnd.

Internet Bandwidth Usage

Systems will be implemented during 2008 to discourage excessive Internet bandwidth usage by a minority of students and so improve the bandwidth available for the majority of students. All students will receive a bandwidth allocation when they enrol in a program. This allocation will be more than sufficient to meet the needs that program. If a student uses up all of their bandwidth allocation, a further bandwidth allocation will need to be purchased. Access to RMIT web sites, Blackboard, WebEMS, and the RMIT Online Library, will be unrestricted and will not be counted in the bandwidth usage calculations.

Textbook Rental

The textbook rental fee is included in the course fees.
