Before Students Arrive

If students are new to Vietnam we recommend that students arrive 4 weeks prior to the school's start date to have time to arrange long-term accommodation.

International students still living overseas can book their temporary accommodation prior to them leaving home by booking through Agoda or TripAdvisor. Please read carefully the review/evaluation from the past customers for reference before making the booking.

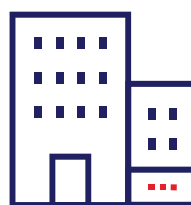

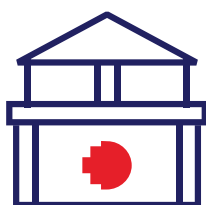

Students may want to arrange their long term accommodation before arrival, however, starting with short-stay accommodation will help them make an informed decision on location, price, safety and proximity to public transport. This gives students the opportunity to visit, explore and determine the best location for them.

When Students Arrive

We recommend them meet with our International Student Support Team and Buddy team at International Orientation Day which is normally held a week before the semester starts.

Students will get a chance to meet with RMIT staff and their buddies to get crucial information from the University and to meet with other international students so that they can find roommates then.

Buddy team can support new international students with an accommodation site check and translate the contract for long-term accommodation if needed.
